Econ 163b
Problem Set Policy

If you discuss a problem set with others, you should list the names of these students at the beginning of your problem set. It is fine to discuss the problems with others, but you should do any computer work by yourself (i.e., not have others do it for you). You should also answer all the questions by yourself. If you list no names at the beginning of your problem set, it is assumed that you have done the problem set completely on your own.