

Smith Family Tree

January 30, 2017

Each person's number is in brackets before the name. The date the person entered the Smith family is in brackets after the name. If the person was married into the family, a "+" is in front of the family number. If the person was born into the family, the date in brackets is usually the date of birth. If I know the date of birth or the date of death, this is in parentheses after the date the person entered the family, which is in brackets. The dates in brackets use only numbers, but the dates in parentheses have the month spelled out.

If a person had a child or children with a partner who is not in the family (i.e., does not have a family number), I have put "+" in front of the person's name, but no family number. If I don't know the name, I have put "+NA" in place of the name. If a person has had more than one spouse, all the spouses and their family numbers (with a "+" before each number) are listed in the appropriate rows under the family number of the person. The children of each couple are indented under the couple's numbers. It should be clear which children belong to which couple.

Regarding indentation, "a)" denotes the children of Arthur's and Lillie's children. "b)" denotes the next generation, "c)" denotes the next, and "d)" denotes the next. The original children are siblings. The a's are first cousins, the b's are second cousins, the c's are third cousins, and the d's are fourth cousins.

There are 23 first cousins, of whom 6 are deceased. There are 62 second cousins, 77 third cousins, and 13 fourth cousins. The total number of people on the family list is 284. I believe the person with the most children is [133] Melissa Lee Baughman [05/25/82], six children: [182], [191], [205], [212], [237], and [273].

Everything that follows is consistent with Eileen's official Smith family list. There are, however, undoubtedly some errors, since the official list does not always contain enough information to place the person exactly. I have made a few guesses.
